Description

If you are looking for a home that escapes the conventional format of current apartments, it is worth knowing this property.

The first impression is marked by the extraordinary spaciousness of the social area. A large living room naturally allows you to create different living and dining environments, while maintaining a pleasant sense of space and continuity.

The generous ceiling height, the beautiful wooden flooring and the large windows with traditional design give personality to the home and help preserve that character we associate with good Lisbon apartments.

Natural light plays an important role here. The spacious windows illuminate the social area and create a particularly pleasant atmosphere throughout the day.

One of the most interesting aspects of this apartment is precisely its versatility.

Beyond the living and dining areas, there is space to create an office area, library, reading room or work-from-home space without needing to sacrifice the main use of the living room.

The interior layout also allows for good separation between the social area and the more private areas of the home, providing greater privacy in everyday life.

The bathroom facilities present a contemporary image, with simple lines and light tones, contrasting in a balanced way with the more classical elements present in the home.

The result is an apartment that combines spaciousness, brightness, comfort and personality, offering various possibilities for organizing the space according to the lifestyle of its future owners.

What distinguishes this apartment:
• Social area with very generous dimensions
• Excellent sense of spaciousness
• High ceiling height
• Excellent natural light entry
• Large windows with traditional design
• Wooden flooring with strong aesthetic presence
• Possibility of creating different environments in the living room
• Adequate space for office or reading area
• Good separation between social and private areas
• Bathroom facilities with contemporary design
• A home with character and identity

There are characteristics that a floor plan or a photograph can hardly convey. The dimension and sense of space in this apartment are two of them.
